ICE COATING BREAKS DOWN WIRES—CUTS POWER, PHONES

ABOUT THIS —AND— ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

SIMPLETIONS.—The other day I received a communication having a double appeal. The communication was from a set of dunces or simpletons—well, at least, and the best we can say for the sponsors, is that they never developed the brains with which they were born. The appeal was for funds to promote atheism. The second part of the communication was some "literature" which I was urged to diligently study.

OFFENSIVE.—I apologize to all simpletons for using the term in connection with propagandizing atheists. Simpletons should not be included in the same thought with atheistic propagandists. It happens at the moment that my mind will not produce the word I want. Therefore apologies to all simpletons, who are magnificent as compared to the atheists.

WASTED TIME.—In this world there are multitudes, millions, among all of the many religions of the earth, who do not accept the theological deity of the specific creed, but who do accept the ideal. Why those who are intellectually unable to fathom the plain fact that an ideal is necessary for human achievement must organize to propagate NOTHING is beyond my comprehension. Perhaps it is because there is nothing where thought should originate.

NO MONEY.—The appeal to me was wasted. There is joy in giving to the support of constructive things—to movements which elevate the mind and create an allure equal to leading human souls to the peaks of the mountains from whence glimpses of possibilities of service and achievement may be seen. There is joy in giving where gifts will serve to alleviate human suffering, to restore some one's confidence in human kindness, to keep together mother and children, to give to the little ones, the highest expression of the God love, the warmth of a mother's love. These, I say, are purposes easily securing from thinking people substantial contributions. But there is no money for the destroyer—for that movement which seeks merely to perpetuate its own ignorance and intellectual limitation.

AT ZERO.—Organizations with no constructive purpose are as bad as fleas—or worse. One can scratch when the fleas bite. Vicious organizations frequently cast doubt without substituting knowledge to create a continuing foundation of value. Too often propagandists with destructiveness as their meat and substance present a false front of intellectualism. They create the impression among some that the proponents are learned, when, in fact, they are abysmally ignorant and are far from being intellectual. The limited intellectual group in the world has enough burden to bear cast upon them by honest people of less learning and good intent, and they do not deserve the additional burden cast upon them by flimflammers masquerading as intellectuals. Propagandists for atheism definitely are at zero, or subzero, in the intellectual scale.

OUR FAULT.—But some of this is the fault of those of us who are on the opposite side from atheism. We, too often, fail to make palatable to persons without time or opportunity for deep digging fundamental facts in palatable form. We permit superstitions to hold sway, we allow "old sayings" and customs to take hold as actual truths. We should not do that. We should increase enlightenment. Where there is light, few stumble. This is illustrated by one of the most vicious of "religions" with which this country has been afflicted, a group nationwide made of converts from ALL Christian and some Oriental churches. The group of nuisances drew, and continues to draw, because information is given in such simple form that readers and hearers absorb the information with the thought that they have acquired knowledge which regular religious groups kept hidden. We should try putting out information of FACT in the same simple, understandable style. Then we would not Telephones, light, and power facilities were disrupted all through south Cook and north Will county when a crippling ice storm covered the area on New Year's day.

Hundreds of poles and more wires went down under the weight of ice all over the territory.

All along the Rock Island south of Chicago city line hundreds of houses were without lights and power. Tinley Park seemed to be the most-favored of all places between Blue Island and Joliet. Beginning Thursday morning, telephone service, lights, and power were off north of Joliet, with power being turned on again in some areas Friday evening, and, in other places, as late as Sunday. South of the Cook-Will border along the railroad, telephone service had not been resumed as late as Monday morning.

Many telephones between Blue Island and Tinley Park were out for a time, and some of these had not been restored Monday. Power lines south and north of the village were not in use again until Sunday afternoon.

Public Service Company of Northern Illinois summoned its entire crew for rehabilitation work, and Illinois Bell company put all the workmen it could muster at work replacing poles and restoring wires.

Service was out in New Lenox, Frankfort, and Mokena, and other communities.

Driving was perilous and comparatively few cars were on the highways or several days.

The telephone company estimated its cost at approximately $1,000,000.

BROKEN WIRE CAUSES FIRE

A broken electric wire falling across a corn crib on the farm of Elmer Newton at 167th west on 86th avenue last Thursday set fire to the crib. Mrs. Cooper is improving nicely, none the worse for the auto trip.

CLOSED SATURDAY

Byron Gaskill, chairman of the local AAA committee, stated today that the Will county AAA office would no longer be kept open Saturday mornings. The new office hours will be from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. (noon hour excluded) Monday through Friday of each week.

lose so many well-intentioned people to the vicious, disloyal group.

SORRY.—The atheistic group is composed of a sorry lot. Too dumb to be constructive, they lie and lie and lie. They become nauseating. Of course, if they were not so dumb, they would find out the degree of dumbness of prospects for their sucker list before asking for money. And, also, they would save their literature only for those who cannot read. It's useless for any other purpose—except to create a subject for a columnist.

When he first entered the senate he was the 18th Republican member. Today he is the 10th ranking member of a 51-man Republican membership in the Senate. He has been endorsed for reelection by the Illinois State Central Republican committee.

Higher Phone Rates to Stay

In an order issued recently at Springfield, the Illinois Commerce commission awarded permanent annual telephone rate increases of $25,400,000 yearly, R. F. McQueen, manager for the Illinois Bell Telephone company, announced.

"Actually, more than $17,000,000, or about two-thirds of the $25,400,000 granted, has been in full effect since last July in the form of temporary rates granted by the commission last June," Manager McQueen said. "In total, the amount allowed is about $5,000,000 less than the company had requested."

The new monthly rates for the principal classes of service in Mokena, Frankfort, and New Lenox, Mr. McQueen explained, became effective January 1, and are as follows:

Individual residence, $3.00.
Two-party residence, $2.50.
Four-party residence, $2.25.
Rural residence, $2.15.
Residence extension, $0.60.
Individual business, $4.75.
Two-party business, $4.25.
Rural extension, $2.65.
Business extension, $1.25.

Rates on long distance calls going outside Illinois are not increased.

Increases of 5 cents on station-to-station rates for toll calls beyond 75 miles would apply within the state. Increases on person-to-person calls begin at 33 miles and are five cents or 10 cents up to 375 miles. These increases became effective December 5.

Certain special business services such as business telephone installation charges and rates for private branch exchange trunks are increased.

Engineers Open Frankfort Office

Construction of underground storage facilities for holding 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas soon will be started by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Sauk trail, about one mile west of Matteson, it was learned this week.

Estimated cost of the operation is $2,500,000, although it was said that exact figures were not available when The Semmler Newspapers requested an interview to secure details on the magnitude of the operation.

Main thought behind the operation appears to be the protection of the growing communities of the Chicago Heights-Blue Island-Harvey areas. With this purpose, according to a company official, the company recently purchased a tract of land measuring 160 acres, and soon will start the construction of the huge storage plant. Mr. Colwell stated that the work is expected to be finished before the end of this year.

The new storage plant will be for natural gas, it was stated, and not necessarily for immediate use. Since the war natural gas transportation has not been available in quantities equal to public demand. It is expected that natural gas will be available later in large volume as pipelines are increased.

The new plant is identical, it was stated, with a plant placed in service a year ago at Kankakee and more recently at Kankakee. The new installation will consist of molybdenum steel pipe sections which will be buried six feet deep. Sections of the 24-inch steel pipes, each 40 feet long, will be joined by one-inch pipe connections. Approximately 800 pipe sections, each with a capacity of 25,000 cubic feet of gas at 2,240 pounds pressure, will be required to provide the needed 20,000,000 cubic feet of storage. The pipe sections, which already have been delivered to the site, will be laid underground in parallel rows, 15 feet apart, with 8 pipe sections to each row.

Approximately one-quarter of the 160-acre site will be required for the installation, following which the entire site will be appropriately landscaped, company officials said.

The added storage facilities are needed as a protective measure because of substantial increases in demands for gas from industrial, commercial, and residential users throughout the area, it was stated.

The contract was let to Stone & Webster, engineering firm, some time ago. The firm has opened offices in Frankfort in connection with the operation, and PS Co.

Engineers in the Frankfort office are W. O. Gentry of Kansas City, Mo., and H. R. Strieby of Rockford, Ill.

SERVICES MOST NEEDED BY MODERN RURAL COMMUNITIES:

SMALL TOWNS, U. S. A.

Rural America Is on Threshold Of Many Revolutionary Changes

By EARLE HITCH

Released by WNU Features

(Editor's Note: First in a series of articles on the vital problems and opportunities of small town and rural America.)

Almost like clicking a switch, rural America has been snapped into a new age. It is the era of big-scale, scientific agricultural production. Farming is undergoing revolutionary changes. As a consequence there is a shifting and shuffling in rural occupations. The new farming demands fewer workers. But it wants more mechanical skills, more capital and more business brains.

Industry is decentralizing. Branches of big plants are getting away from the congestion of cities. More small shops and mills are springing up in rural environments. This, too, is changing the character of rural employment. As machines displace labor in farming, new rural occupations will have to be created. Otherwise local population losses are inevitable.

Hence the people who live in the country today need, and will have, a new kind of community. The new community must be more than a place for trade. It must be the civic center of the whole country round about, as much devoted to matters of health, recreation and social good, as to matters of business.

New Outlook Demanded.

To keep pace with these changing conditions, the small towns will have to get new shapes and new outlooks. They will have to adapt to the needs of their particular surroundings. They need re-designing to make their activities suited to the new rural life that is developing.

The country itself is becoming "citified." That is, country people are as style conscious and as socially alert as city people. They have new expectations of their towns. Thus the towns must reconsider their reasons for being. The towns that recognize this will find ways for more community usefulness. Those that act boldly and with imagination are going to be heard from.

These are the conclusions of those who are watching the trends over rural America. That is why the years just ahead promise to be an era of activity in rural community planning.

For the small towns which bestir themselves a bright and larger future is in prospect. Now, for the first time since the automobile and the smooth highway switched trade to the city, the rural communities have a chance to "come back." They need not be content with obsolescence. What they need is to come alive, to shake themselves and take hope.

That's the opinion of leaders in the rural life movement, among whom are Eugene Smathers, who has developed a model plan at Big Lick, Tenn.; Dr. Baker Brownell, who directed the Montana rural study for Rockefeller foundation; O. E. Baker, social scientist of University of Maryland, and Monsignor L. G. Ligutti, secretary of National Catholic Rural Life conference.

Pioneer in Program.

Important pioneering has been done in rural community reorganization. The lead in actually demonstrating what can be done has been taken by the Catholic and Protestant churches, which have established missions for social work in several rural communities, and by the American Friends Service committee, which has community projects in Pennsylvania and South Carolina. Surveys and studies have been made by Rockefeller foundation, by various farm bureau federations, the farmers' union, the national grange, some of the agricultural colleges and the U. S. department of agriculture.

Taken together, these surveys and inquiries show what is needed and practical ways to go about filling the needs.

Navy to Close Historic Arms Dump

IONA ISLAND, N. Y. — After 47 years as a prime link in the chain of American sea defense, Iona island, nestled in the scenic land of Rip van Winkle, goes on the shelf. The navy has offered its ammunition dump on the island for rent, preferably for conversion to manufacturing, laboratory or institutional use.

The island's 123 acres do not permit further expansion and modern

The inquiries and experiments have confirmed what civic leaders have been maintaining—that there are many ways in which the small community, probably to its own surprise, can provide what growing numbers of people want and cannot find elsewhere. That is, first of all, a pleasant place in which to work and live. The towns which realize this and act on the idea will be in favorable position.

Things most needed over the country generally are better health services, clinics, hospitals, park spaces and swimming pools; new jobs to take the place of those that are being eliminated by farm machinery, and more opportunities for small farming on a family-supporting basis.

Devise New Projects.

Among the practical projects that have been devised are rural homesteads for industrial workers. Other types of homesteads for young rural couples wishing to get land and make a start in small farming, new rural industries like seed testing, poultry killing, alfalfa and sweet potato dehydrating, mechanical repairs and upkeep for farm machinery and electrical installations in rural homes, and various cooperative projects, like machinery pools, creameries, canning and other processing enterprises.

To keep the rural economy stabilized and to help the small farm families survive in the competition with big-scale farming, is a national policy to which congress long has been committed, and which is supported by churches, farm federations and political parties.

The farm is the seed bed of the nation, say the population specialists and the rural economists. From the farm come many of the men and women of tomorrow. The cities never have replaced themselves and are not doing so now.

The rural institutions that have been outmoded should have the attention of the whole rural community. Over the country generally, everything from churches to mercantile systems needs overhauling, and there should be considerable education about what a modern rural community should undertake to do for its people.

The idea that the small town has new and important functions should be planted at once in the communities that are determined to catch up with the trends, and should be emphasized by repetition until the citizens are convinced they should do something about it.

To get the rural community out of its obsolescence and persuade it to catch up with farming progress, the whole people, youth and adults, must be made to see community deficiencies. They will not see until they are made to take a look. This is going to take tact, persistence and energetic leadership.

To help develop and direct such leadership is one of the objects of the agencies backing the rural life movement. This movement will be described in the next article in this series.

safety requirements in the handling of high explosives are difficult to maintain here, the navy explained in announcing the rental proposal.

The most stirring chapters in the little island's history were written during the two world wars, when the ammunition dump provided shells and other weapon fodder for navy vessels, merchant ships, overseas bases and shore stations.

Women Vets Compensated

Veterans' administration announces that 13,652 women veterans of World War II are receiving disability compensation or pensions and 2,273 women veterans are in veterans hospitals or homes as patients.

Women veterans are eligible for the same medical care as male veterans, are granted out-patient treatment and priority for hospitalization for service-connected disabilities and also may be treated in VA hospitals for non-service connected ailments provided a bed is available and they cannot afford to pay for treatment elsewhere.

Of the total women veteran patients 246 were in VA hospitals with tuberculosis, 502 were psychotics, 135 had other neuropsychiatric disorders and 1,152 were general medical and surgical patients.

VA also says that 4,564 women veterans of World War I still are receiving disability compensation or pensions.

Questions and Answers

Q. My only son was killed in the merchant marine during the war. I got an allotment from him during the time he was in the service. Am I entitled to a pension as the result of his death? If so what can I do to get it?—Mrs. J. E. B., Meadville, Miss.

A. There is no provision for pensions for parents or other dependents of deceased members of the merchant marine. There is a bill pending in congress, HR 476, called the merchant marines' G.I. bill, which would provide for benefits to dependents and members of the merchant marine. However, this bill is still in committee. If your son was killed as a result of enemy action or received injuries from which he died as a result of enemy action, he might be entitled to $5,000 insurance under provisions of the second war powers act. If you have not received this insurance in allotments or in a lump sum, suggest that you write immediately to B. K. Ogden, Chief Insurance Division, Bureau of Operations, Maritime Commission, Washington, D. C. Give all details, your son's full name and the ship upon which he met his death.

Q. Can you tell me how much income you are allowed to have and still draw a pension for the death of your son killed in World War II?—Mrs. L. T. W., Cairo, Ill.

A. The law does not fix a specific income, but says dependency is regarded as insufficient income to provide reasonable maintenance for father or mother and members of his or her family under legal age and for dependent adult members of family if dependency is result of mental or physical incapacity. Maintenance would include housing, food, clothing and medical care. Factors to be considered in determining income would include net income of property owned or business operated by father or mother; earnings of father or mother and other members of family under legal age; social security benefits such as old age insurance, survivors insurance, et cetera. Dependency generally is held to exist when monthly income from sources considered does not exceed $60 a month for mother or father, not living together, or $100 a month for mother or father living together plus $25 for each additional member of the family.

Q. Our son was discharged from the navy in June, 1943. He was wounded in action in the Pacific theater and upon his discharge filed a claim for disability and pension with Veterans' administration. His injuries and disability healed, however, before he had any word from Veterans' administration on his claim and he never pressed it and we have heard nothing more from it to this day. However, he now is becoming disabled again as a result of these same injuries. We are wondering if he can again file a claim for pension?—Mrs. A. J. K., Wilshire, Ohio.

A. Veterans' administration says yes, he can file a claim, even if he withdrew the previous claim. Suggest that he go to the nearest office of Veterans' administration and explain the circumstances.

Q. My husband has lost his serial number. He served in World War II and was honorably discharged. He was wounded in the service and is unable to work much so we need his serial number for application for jobs or other benefits. Can you tell us how he can obtain the number?—Mrs. T. J. L., Cynthia, Ind.

A. Write to the Demobilized Records Branch, Office of the Adjutant General, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Mo. Give your husband's full name and time and place of his enlistment and discharge and the outfit with which he served.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Thad's Feet Hurt

After a long, hard day's work on the farm, Thad's idea of how to spend an evening is to take off his shoes, and relax with a mellow glass of beer.

But his missus has other ideas. After being in the house all day, she's all for walking to the village, if it's only for a soda. Likes to see people, catch the latest gossip. But Thad says, no, his feet hurt! Begun to cause unpleasantness in Thad's home.

Then Bill Webster comes up with an idea. If Thad takes the missus to Andy's Garden Tavern, Thad can relax with his glass of beer, and the missus can also chat with all the neighbors there. Each gets his (or her) own way.

Worked, too! In fact, now the missus likes an occasional temperate glass of beer herself. And Thad finds it's pleasanter to enjoy his beer with good companions, rather than alone. In fact, his feet stopped hurting too!

WHEREAS, the Village of Tinley Park, Cook County, Illinois, is without adequate facilities to properly accommodate the offices and departments of said Village; and

WHEREAS, it is deemed advisable, necessary and for the best interests of the Village that a municipal building be constructed to adequately accommodate the offices and departments of the Village; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees has caused to be made an estimate of the cost of constructing a municipal building, and it will be necessary that said Village borrow the sum of Eighty Thousand Dollars ($80,000) and in evidence thereof issue municipal building bonds therefor;

Section 1. That there be borrowed by and for and on behalf of the Village of Tinley Park the sum of Eighty Thousand Dollars ($80,000) for the purpose of constructing a municipal building to accommodate offices and departments of the Village. That to evidence said loan, negotiable coupon bonds of said Village be issued. Said bonds shall be designated "Municipal Building Bonds," be eighty (80) in number, numbered from 1 to 80, inclusive, be of the denomination of $1,000 each, be dated February 1, 1948, and become due and payable in numerical order on December 1 of each of the years and in amounts as follows:

$3,000—1950 through 1952

4,000—1953 through 1959

5,000—1960 through 1964

6,000—1965 through 1967.

Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of three and three-fourths per cent (3 3/4%) per annum, payable on the first day of December, 1949, and semi-annually thereafter on the first days of June and December, until paid, which interest payments to date of maturity of principal shall be evidenced by proper interest coupons attached to each bond and maturing on the dates herein provided, and both principal and interest shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at The First National Bank of Chicago, in the City of Chicago, Illinois. The seal of said Village shall be affixed to each of said bonds, and said bonds shall be signed by the President and attested by the Clerk of said Village, and said coupons shall be signed and attested by said officials, respectively, by their facsimile signatures, and said officials, by the execution of said bonds, shall adopt as and for their respective proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Homer Church News

At the traditional Christmas Eve service of Homer church, two short plays, one by the juniors and the other by the young people, were much appreciated. There was also music by the junior and senior choirs and recitations and music by several individuals. In the absence of Rev. Botkin, Mr. Harold Finley led in prayer and spoke briefly of the significance of the Christmas season. Much credit is due to Mrs. Henry Rodgers, Mrs. Wray White, Miss Shirley Burch, Mr. Botkin, and others who assisted with the program and arrangements. Santa Claus was in a very jovial mood and made a big hit with the entire audience. He was elegantly dressed in a brand-new suit, especially tailored for him by the good Mrs. Claus.

On Sunday, January 4, Mr. Botkin expects to be in charge of the regular Sunday morning service. The quarterly communion service will be held and the monthly dinner will be served at noon in the church dining room. Mr. Botkin is planning to bring his wife and two daughters with him when he returns from Oklahoma, and they will live in an apartment near the University of Chicago.

Illinois Junior Growers Win Five National Awards

ILLINOIS junior growers were named winners of one sectional and four state awards in the 1947 production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association as the organization gathered in Jackson, Miss., for its 13th annual three-day convention.

Sectional honors were captured by Fred Harris, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Harris of Grand Chain.

As top performer in Illinois, Fred won $100 from the $6,000 in scholarships provided each year by A & P Food Stores to encourage better production and marketing of vegetables by farm youth.

Other results announced by Prof. Grant B. Snyder of the University of Massachusetts, adult advisor to the association, included the awarding of the national championship, and the top $500 scholarship to Lewis G. Schaeneman, Jr., 16-year-old grower of East Longmeadow, Mass.

Young Harris' winning project covered only two acres of his parents' 105-acre farm, but he produced a wide assortment of vegetables with emphasis on tomatoes, lima beans, lettuce and potatoes. In both home consumption and sales to neighbors, Fred realized a total of $249.60 of which $170.67 was net profit.

A ninth-grade student at high school where he is president of his class and soft-ball team captain, Fred has been actively engaged in 4-H Club work for the past five years. During this period his gardening and livestock projects have won him several grand championships and other awards in Pulaski County competition.

Other Illinois state awards voted by the NJVGA convention for outstanding gardening projects went to Delores Naffziger, R.D. 1, Zion; Donald Harnacke of New Holland; Birdie Douglas of Grand Chain, and Audrey Lotz, RR 4, Macomb.

Pattern Simplifies Making This Handy Workbench

FULL size patterns, similar in use to those which women rely upon to make dresses, are now available for use on the flat surface of lumber.

The pattern for making this handy workbench consists of outlines printed on paper, of all component parts of the workbench; step by step instructions that a boy of 14 years of age can understand, and numbered assembly illustrations which show exactly where each piece is fastened together, where to drive nails, the size to use, etc. A complete list of materials that can be purchased at any lumber yard is also supplied.

The pattern is first traced on the wood. The user then saws and assembles as the pattern indicates. All the mathematical mystery usually associated with working with lumber has been eliminated. Through the use of these patterns even the most unskilled person can do a really professional job of making this workbench. And—most important—no special tools are needed.

Just the bench for your cellar or garage workshop. Send 25 cents in coin, money order or check for Pattern No. 15 to: East-Bud Pattern Co., Box 74, Pleasantville, N. Y.

BRITISH LAND GIRLS VISIT THE MINES . . . In Great Britain the people are becoming as stunt-conscious as Americans always have been. But with them now, instead of "anything for a gag," it's "anything to stimulate badly needed production." Here, reciprocating for a visit paid them by a group of coal miners, these British land girls (farm workers) paid a visit to a Kentish mine and seemed to be quite happy about getting all blackened up. Visits such as this are part of a program to promote better understanding between the men who dig the coal and the people who use it.

LAST SOLDIERS LEAVE ITALY . . . Italy has seen the last of the American occupation troops. A platoon of MP's presents arms as the final units of American G.I.s march on the pier at Leghorn before boarding the U. S. transport Admiral Sims (background) for home. The troops left 9 hours and 45 minutes ahead of scheduled departure according to the terms of the Italian peace treaty. All that remains is a graves registration detail.

GETTING THE BRUSH-OFF . . . This inhabitant of the London zoo, "George," a 16-foot giraffe, isn't as much trouble as you might think from looking at him—if you believe in giraffes, that is. It took two years before George would allow himself to be groomed by his keeper, Arthur Page, but now that the longnecked animal has learned patience he takes it in his stride. He even places his feet wide apart to reduce his altitude as an aid to the man who is giving him his bath.

'IT FEELS JUST BEAUTIFUL' . . . Nancy Jackson, 3, and Johnny Pulpytel, 5, couldn't break through the darkness in which they live to see the doll which screen actress Loretta Young gave them when she visited the nursery school of the New York association of the blind. But when they touched it with their fingers they could tell that it was a pretty wonderful thing. The doll, like Loretta, has appeared in the movies.

BIRD IN THE HAND . . . Gertrude Lawrence, England's great gift to the theater, loves birds (not the kind you get in Brooklyn). On her shoulder is a rose-crested cockatoo and in her hand she holds an African grey parrot.

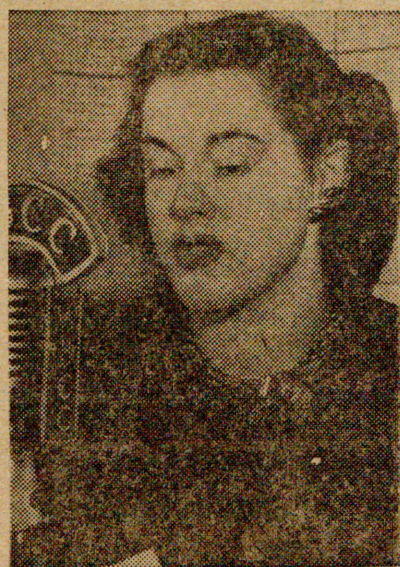

ROYAL THANKS . . . When Julie Alloro, 4, of Brooklyn, sent a turkey to Princess Elizabeth for a wedding gift she thought that was the last of it. Then came thank-you letter from Buckingham palace with royally picked wishbone enclosed.

DOUBLE TAKE . . . The face in the background and the diamond back terrapin at the left are normal, but the terrapin at the right is a genuine double-header. It turned up out of an egg at the department of commerce aquarium in Washington, D. C.

NEW ON THE JOB . . . Alexander Semonovich Panyushkin is the new Soviet ambassador to the U. S. He replaced Nicolai V. Novikov who was recalled to Moscow for "reasons of health," or maybe you prefer your own reasons.

CAREER GIRL . . . No pampered do-nothing is Drucie Snyder, daughter of John Snyder, secretary of the treasury. At Bethesda, Md., station WBCC, she worked her way up from girl-of-all-work until now she has her own news program.

Watch Your Kidneys!

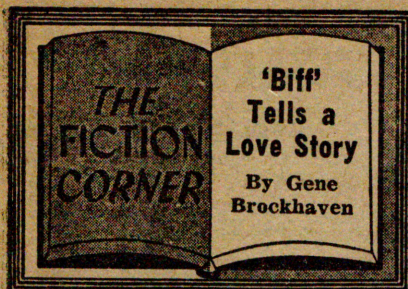

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

DOAN'S PILLS

PICKING his way slowly through the massed humanity crowding toward the exits, Matt Walsh, sports writer, pondered the sensational ending of the ring battle he had just witnessed. He was blase about quick knockouts; he had seen many of them and undoubtedly would see many more. But he still thrilled to the brilliant — if boxing skill could be called that — and masterful job turned in by Spot Mathers.

Well, here was a new champion and Walsh felt he should know more about the boy. Something of his personal life.

It was after midnight when he reached the hotel at which the new champion and his entourage were stopping. At the door of the Mathers' suite he was halted by a blast of noise—the victory celebration. The big living room was a bedlam. Walsh glanced about the room but saw no sign of Mathers. He sought out the boy's manager, Pete Miley, busy in the role of lavish host.

"Mathers? Just went down the hall to room 1117," Miley answered his question. "Go on down and see him."

Walsh did. The door was slightly ajar. He tapped lightly, waited, then tapped again. When there was no response he opened the door and peered in. He stepped back, closing the door softly. Mmm-m, that tableau was something unexpected and unusual on victory night in the fight racket. Young Mathers, his arm around a dark-haired girl—a sleeping baby tucked in carefully between pillows at the head of the bed. This was no time to break in for an interview, so Walsh returned to the other room. He managed there to corral Biff Jones, old-timer in the ring business and Mathers' trainer.

"Biff," said Walsh, "how about some dope on the new champion? And what about that gal and baby down the hall? Let's go some place where we can talk."

"Okay. This party's slowing down anyways."

They went down to the hotel grill and found a table in the corner of the room.

"Now, tell me about Mathers. What kind of a guy is he?"

"Sure, I can tell you lots about that kid and about his wife and baby, too. I like 'em, all three of 'em, and I'd like to tell my story. But I gotta tell it my way." Biff blinked at Walsh.

"All right, tell it."

"Well, it begins some two years ago," Biff began. "Me and Pete Miley is sittin' in Pete's office gabbing about nothin' much when in walks a cocky, good lookin' kid. He's got a letter for Pete from some guy down south. He walks up to Pete, ignorin' me, and says: 'You Pete Miley? This is for you.' Pete takes the letter, reads it and looks up at the kid.

"So, you're a fighter, eh?" Pete says.

"Yeah, and good one," says the kid.

"Come on, Biff, get on with it," interrupted Walsh impatiently.

"As I was sayin'," Biff continued, "the kid says, 'I gotta get a fight right away. We gotta eat.'"

"Pete says, 'We, who's we?'"

"Me and Sally," the kid says, and goes on talkin' about him and his wife comin' up to New York to pick up some of the big fightin' sugar they been readin' about. They come up in a old jalopy, the kid says, and now the dough's run out. Pete says to the kid what's his full name and the kid says, without battin' an eye, 'Spottingham T. Mathers,' and looks at the both of us like darin' us to laugh. Pete kinda grins but he aint laughin' out loud. I could see Pete's takin' a likin' to final spots, because, as I says, he's good. Him and Sally is livin' on their own now because Pete's been pullin' down some good pots for him and I know personal that Pete aint takin' any cut, leastwise not much. He likes them kids, specially Sally, like everybody does. But let me tell you, this Sally aint no eye-waver. She's stuck on Spot and don't make no bones about it. But that Spot, now, he's got a bit of a rovin' eye, and like I told you, he's a cocky punk and he aint against steppin' once in a while, now the dough's comin' in. But I guess when a kid's 21 he gets to thinkin' he's really somethin' special.

"Well, them once-in-a-while steppin's begin to get quite frequent and many's the night I find myself keepin' Sally company on lonely nights when that milk-sop is sowin' a few oats. I feel sorry for Sally, and I tell her it's just like a case of the the kid and soon he hands him a finif.

"Pete tells the kid to go out and buy him and Sally a big steak and to come around tomorrow with his fightin' togs and he'll see what the kid's got. I go to the gym with them next day and Pete sticks the kid in there with a old warhorse named Batalia. The kid, considerin' he aint been eatin' so good, does okay and Pete holds him.

"We get our first peek at Sally when Pete moves her and the kid over to Pete's hotel. Pete tells the kid to go to the gym a few days and for me to work with him.

"Well, as I says, we get our first peek at Sally, and boy, she's somethin'! She aint got ony looks but she's got somethin' else I don't know what. Anyways, I go for Sally big — don't get me wrong, mister, my courtin' days is long gone — she's a nice kid. Well, them two kids, eatin' regular again with Pete payin', bloom like a coupla hot house flowers put out in the sun. Soon Pete spots the kid in a four-round prelim at St. Nick's and the kid comes through with a quick kayo. O'course he knocks over a bum, but we like the way he does it.

"It aint long before the kid's moved up to semi-finals and then mumps or the gallopin' measles, a little while sick and you're good as new again. But that Sally can take it, she's no plater, and she keeps smilin'."

Biff reached for his glass.

"Well," he resumed, "the kid starts going around with a show gal. I talk to him.

"Listen, knob-ears," he says, "you're keepin' outta this." He tells me a lot more about him and this show gal gettin' married after he wins the title and gives Sally the air.

"NEXT day I tell Pete all and we head over for the gym where Spot's workin' out. Pete quizzes him and all he gets for his trouble is abuse.

"I go around to see Sally next day to see if she knows anythin' about this marriage business. I poke around kinda subtle like and then quiz her if she's heard anything about Spot and this show gal. Well, she starts cryin' and I feel like a four-star dope. I don't know what to do and just stand there sayin', 'there, there, like I heard a mother once with a cryin' baby. It don't do much good. Sally keeps cryin' soft like. That kinda cryin' don't need no sound effects, it goes deep. Pretty soon she says she's goin' back home. And she does, leavin' a note for the punk.

"He goes around a coupla days sour-pussed. I don't hear a word from Sally for weeks and I don't think the punk has neither, but Pete is goin' around with a wise look and I get a hunch he knows somethin'. The kid has changed some. He aint so cocky no more and he seldom goes out at night. One night, just before we're leavin' for the trainin' camp where the kid's gonna get ready for the final 'limination bout, I'm in his room helpin' him pack.

"It aint long and the phone buzzes. The kid's near it and picks it up. He says, 'I aint here,' and hangs up. Pretty soon comes a knock on the door and dummy me opens it. A dame is there. I figure it's the show gal and I'm right. She steps over to the kid. 'Honey,' she says, 'you aint seen me lately?' The kid keeps on packin'. Then he says he aint gonna see her no more.

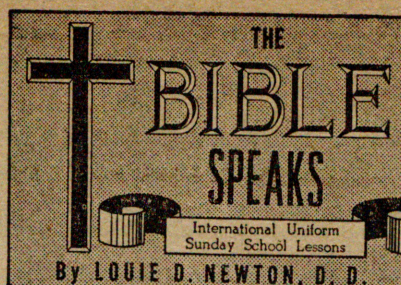

"Then the fireworks begin. That dame gives him the trimmin's and when she's in high gear she heaves a water bottle at the kid's head and stalks out. He ducks and the bottle whams against the wall. During the ruckus I duck into a corner. I see mad dames work before.

"It's two or three days later when I see Pete at the camp. I tell him about the show and he looks at me kinda funny and says now's the time to tell him and maybe he's all over it. I don't catch the drift, but I tag along over to the house with Pete. The kid's restin' when me and Pete come into the room. Pete says, 'Spot, I got some news for you, news from Sally.' The kid sits up sudden like and he gets kinda white. He don't say nothin', just keeps lookin' at Pete. 'Sally,' Pete says, 'is gonna have a baby.' Just like that.

"The kid jumps up outta the bed and he starts to cry. I think I kinda like him then, even though he's actin' sissy. 'Pete,' he says, 'I gotta go to her! I gotta!'

"Pete says okay and take a coupla days off. So the kid goes home to see Sally. You never see such a changed guy when he comes back. He's talkin' again and he's happy and he even gets friendly with me and I kinda like it, too, seemin' he aint the smart-alex no more.

"So you see, like I once say to Sally, it's like the mumps, a little while sick and you're okay again, and so's them kids, all three of 'em, now."

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 14:8-14; Acts 17:22-31. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 33.

What We Know of God

Lesson for January 11, 1948

THE Scripture for Sunday's lesson is Isaiah 40:28-31, Matthew 6:9, John 14:8-14, and Acts 17:22-31, with Psalm 33 as the devotional reading.

Dr. Newton

"Hast thou not known? Hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? There is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

That is the passage from Isaiah. What a promise! In this hour when men are bending beneath the burden of a war-weary world, how it gives lift to one's soul to contemplate the words of this great and blessed promise.

God Our Maker

"HE GIVES to all men life and breath and everything," Acts 17:25. One of our daily prayers should be to thank God that he has let us open our eyes to the beauty of another dawn. We must not take it for granted. It is the goodness and mercy of God that permits us to open our eyes, to breathe, to have food, to think. He gives us life and breath and everything.

He causes the sun to shine and the tides to ebb and flow. He causes the rain to fall and the winds to bear their blessings. He holds the earth in its course. God is the maker of every good thing.

And He Is Our Father

NOT only is God the Creator and Sustainer of the physical universe; but he is also our Father. He knows us each by name. He cares for the sparrows, simply because they are sparrows. He cares for us because we are his children, made in his image, capable of fellowship with him. The end of man, as the Catechism clearly teaches, is to enjoy God and glorify him forever.

Read again the passage that describes Paul's visit to Athens, and how he observed that the people, though quite intelligent, were worshipping many different gods. Paul summoned them to worship the one true and living God.

When we acknowledge God as Maker and Father, we are then able to serve him in conscious assurance of his love and care for us as his adopted children.

Show Us the Father

READ again John 14:8-14, and join with Philip in the prayer, "Show us the Father." Jesus answered Philip, saying, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." We come to know God as Father through Jesus Christ, and only through Jesus Christ.

Jesus goes on to say to Philip, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." The greatest need of our day and generation is a fresh understanding of God—his nature and his will. We can know him through Jesus Christ. And we come to know him through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Enoch walked with God. Abraham was the friend of God. David was a man after God's own heart. And Jesus came to perfectly reveal the Father. The determining factor in knowing God as Father is our willingness to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Belief in God Today

THE Bible is a Book for today—any day, every day. It reveals the purpose of creation, both of the universe and man himself. It reveals the loving concern of God for every soul. It portrays his forbearance and his mercy and his exceeding kindness, even to sinful men and women who reject his love.

Best of all, the Bible tells us the sweetest story ever told—the story of how God gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

Religion, the Christian religion, is the most practical proposition in the world. Every man is constantly in reach of God, if only he will believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. God is yonder in the loneliest watchtower of the timberlands. He is yonder on the storm-tossed ship at sea. He is everywhere, waiting to own and bless any and all who will come to him through Jesus Christ.

Plywood for Mummies

The mummy cases of many of the Egyptian kings were made of plywood. First commercial use of fir plywood, now an all-purpose building material, was in 1905 when door panels were made in the United States. About one billion six hundred million square feet of plywood will be manufactured this year. Manufacture of plywood is believed to have started about 1850 in Russia and some other countries.

Automatic Transmission

Engineers developing automatic transmission during the past 40 years have established seven basic types — electrical drive, friction drive, hydraulic torque converter, gear type with fluid coupling, hydraulic variable displacement pump, mechanical beam with variable fulcrum and mass inertia type — any or all of which may come into general use within three years.

Keep 'Hello' Girls Busy

Few people use their telephones more than Canadians, and only three of the principal countries in the world exceed Canada in telephone installation. Canada has more than two million telephones, or 15 to every 100 persons, with only the United States, Sweden and New Zealand holding a higher proportion.

Fire, Spare That Tree

Forest fires burn over an area nearly as large as the state of New York every year, destroying three billion trees—four times as many as annually are cut for use. To prevent woodland fires, forest protection agencies use delicate instruments which record the moisture content of the air and of dead wood on the ground. When these devices warn of conditions favorable to forest fires, protective measures are intensified.

In a New Dress

Grapefruit is no longer the bitter, thick-skinned, sometimes pithy fruit of the Gay Nineties. Its old objectionable characteristics have disappeared since improved varieties have been developed. Scientists are still on the job, trying to produce new strains that will be even more appetizing and health-giving than today's.

Feathers Aid Hearing

While birds have regular ears, many of their acute sense of hearing comes through the auditory aid of feathers, according to Dr. Christian A. Volf, internationally known physicist. Dr. Volf says that extensive experiments which he has made prove that birds hear through their feathers, especially their tail feathers.

AN ORDINANCE providing for borrowing money and issuing Municipal Building Bonds of the Village of Tinley Park, Cook County, Illinois, in the amount of $80,000, and providing for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds.

WHEREAS, the Village of Tinley Park, Cook County, Illinois, is without adequate facilities to properly accommodate the offices and departments of said Village; and

Section 1. That there be borrowed by and for and on behalf of the Village of Tinley Park the sum of Eighty Thousand Dollars ($80,000) for the purpose of constructing a municipal building to accommodate offices and departments of the Village. That to evidence said loan, negotiable coupon bonds of said Village be issued. Said bonds shall be designated "Municipal Building Bonds," be eighty (80) in number, numbered from 1 to 80, inclusive, be of the denomination of $1,000 each, be dated February 1, 1948, and become due and payable in numerical order on December 1 of each of the years and in amounts as follows:

Such registration of any of said bonds shall not, however, affect the negotiability of the coupons attached to said bonds, but such coupons shall continue negotiable by delivery merely notwithstanding registration thereof.

Section 3. That each of said bonds and each of the interest coupons to be thereto attached shall be in substantially the following forms:

(Form of Bond)

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Gay Nineties Are Staging Comeback

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Shades of Grandma! History repeats itself — pantaloons and camisoles will be back in style this spring, West Coast fashion experts say.

They predict that these ruffy feminine garments will be as popular for spring wear in 1948 as they were back in Grandma's day.

Pretty pantaloons of cotton will give another ruffle to show beneath wide-cut skirts. And bloomers are back, too, ruffled all over. These probably will be worn under active sports dresses and play clothes. Both dress and sportswear markets are showing versions of these fashions for resort and spring.

Crisp, wide petticoats will be worn to increase the width of flaring skirts. They'll be made of starched cotton print fabrics, the color of the print picking up the color of the dress with which it is worn.

The alloy, carbide, used in making high-speed metal cutting tools, is almost as hard as a diamond, according to the World Book Encyclopedia.

WASH AUTOS OFTEN

Automobiles should be washed frequently in the winter time to avoid damage from salt-abrasive mixture; extensively used to melt street ice and snow, according to E. L. Harris, national service manager of the Chevrolet Motor division.

Street brine when splashed on a car Mr. Harris said, may not only damage the body paint, but also is harmful to the chassis. A weekly car bath will add to its life. Salt is used by many highway departments, because it decreases the freezing point of water to approximately seven degrees above zero.

The first settlement in the state of Georgia was made at Savannah in the year 1733.
